sons for expecting better prices. Besides, full confidence as to the final outcome, may be based upon the wise conclusion of the farmer to prize and put his tobacco in condition to hold for the best demands, only to be found on the open markets. The force of combines, who have ignored open markets in order to fix lower prices in the country is broken, and we predict an era of greater prosperity will come to tobacco growers. The farmers will not regret the move they have made, and the more compact their organization, the greater their influence.

As we have done for the many years past, we solicit the patronage of farmers. As heretofore, our best efforts in their behalf can safely be relied upon.
